More Indian Atrocities,

Tucson, September 2 .- Advices from Nogoles (on the line), of the first, says: The Apaches are depredating fearfulty in this locality, and to the southeast. This week they attacked Michilones ranch and killed a man, his wife and father, took a little girl and beating her head against the house left her for dead. She has recovered sufficiently to recite the fearful acts of cruelty on her mother before the red devils killed her. They took all the stock on the ranch. A party of Mexicans followed and overtook the Indians near Buena Vista, where they were attacked and driven back. The Indians greatly outnumbered them. On Tuesday the ranch Babo Saco was attacked by the same band, killing one man and wounding enote. On Wednesday Cutaca a ranch was jumped. Pedro Chilotea and Altimarino were killed, and most all of the stock driven off. The Apaches have divided into two bands. Mexican soldiers and citizens are passing in on them from all sides.

During the progress of the second ballot an effort was made to withdraw the name of Davies in favor of Kendfield, and Wilson also wanted to withdraw his name, but the chairman ruled that it could not be done. The convention took the hint that some kind of a sale was in progress and sided with the chairman, and instead of permitting Davies to be withdrawn nominated him. After the convention adjourned the delegates gathered in front of the Golden Eagle botel, where the nominees were surrounded. Estee, Barnes, Knight and others spoke.

Last week the committee got possession of the sum of $20,000, and the chairman thereupon appropriated the same for general purposes and the use of the committee at headquarters. ABORIGINAL DEVILTRY.

Northern Sonora in a State of Terror-Murder, Rapine and Robbery-More than Thirty Killed within Two weeks-Ubiquitous Red Devils Liable to be any where.

Reports from the northern frontier of our sister commonwealth are of the most harrowing and alarming character. The entire population is demoralized, many of hardly a doubt but that the savages have a to the borders of New Mexico, and well into the State of Chihuahus, and along the frontier, west to the Santa Cruz river, San Carlos of course is the nursary from which the army is reinforced, and the deprocured. Although the hostiles are mostly operating on the soil of Sonora, the discarded cartridge shells can be found in abundance in their trail, and are distinctly marked U. S. This is suggestive, and fully proves that the arsenals of the United States are furnishing the material with which the lives of civilized people are taken. The death of Tom Johnson is still in the minds of our readers, and only two days ago we chronicled the brutal killing of four Americans near Cananea. Since then the red fiends have kept up their lick their untamed hate are not made to bite Information received in this city Monday is of a more sanguine character than any for some time. We are in possession of the facts of a slaughter, about thirty-five miles south of Calabasas, on Thursday last, when an entire family of three generations, consisting of nine members in all, were ushered to the presence of their creator in a tew minutes. The name of the family was Castilio, and comprised the old grandfather and grandmother, nearly eighty years old, their son and his wife and five children, of all sizes. The fiends surrounded the house while they were at dinner, stole noiselessly to the doors and ruthlessly slaughtered them all while they were yet sitting around the table partaking of their frugal meal. None were spared, old and young alike met the same fate. A cousin of the family, who had always lived with them, was temporarily absent in the fields, and was returning to dinner when he beheld the powerless, he secreted himself and beheld the sickening sight. Our informant, R. C. Winters, who reached the city yesterday from Santa Cruz, a village in Sonora, about sixteen miles from the line, states that he heard the survivor recite the harrowing tale. The red fiends were armed with repeating rifles, and four of them did the execution, not ceasing in their bloody work while a spark of life remained in any of their victims. When the hellish deed was performed, the flends raised a shout and cheered themselves. The bodies were pulled out, scalped and mangled, with portable article confiscated. The corral yearling calf cuptured. The latter was killed and a part of its flesh packed on horseback. Then another yell was indulged in, the house and corral fired, and the fiends departed. They numbered sixteen, and continued their way southward, As soon as they were well out of sight, the terrified kinsman crept from his place of concealment, and went to the desolate home. The house being of adobes, with a mud roof, he found no difficulty in extinguishing the flames, but the corral and sheds were burned to the ground. He immediately took his de parture on foot to the nearest settlement-Santa Cruz, some miles distant. Here, citizens of the adjoining settlements had collected, and all the arms that could be procured were immediately put into the hands of volunteers who started southward town nearly half a day before Mr. Winters started for this place. The greatest anxiety prevailed as there are several isolated ranches south of the scene of their former slaughter. There is not a horse running in the Santa Cruz vailey, as the Apaches had carefully run off all that could be

From all accounts the hostiles are divided into bands numbering from five to twenty, and are exhibiting more audacity than formerly. They openly make their blood both day and night.

Further, authentic information re were eight of them riding over the prairie looking for some stock, when the Apaches who were ambushed, opened fire on them. Six were almost instantly killed, and the numbers of Beduoins have again been in his arm. It behooves people who intend going below to act with caution. There is hardly a doubt but that the

The city was thrown into a fever of excitement Monday morning n consequence of a report that the bravest and best have been killed, fields several men were killed between laid waste and homes desolated. It was said that the report arrived via Charleston, and that a courier brought the news from the scene of the outrage to that point. As may be expected under such circumstances. it caused intense excitement, especially as it was known that Mr. Williams left this place for his home on Sunday evening. Later in the day, however, Col. Moore, H. B. Maxson, Tom Daniels and Arthur Laing arrived, and reported seeing Mr. Williams in Bisbee before they took their departure; also that there were no Indiana visible between here and the copper camp. Mr. Maxson went astray when going over to Bisbee, and had to make a night of it on the foot hills. He says he saw a number of fires toward the south end of the Mule Mountains, and came to the conclusion they were made by some of the depreand scarcely a day passes, that victims of dating flends, as they were making their way to Sonora.

> Opening of the Public Schools. The long vacation is over, and teachers and children again assemble daily in the adobe buildings on the lower end of Fourth street. Promptly at school hour Monday morning, more than two hundred children directed their steps to the school house. They seemed refreshed by their long rest, and were healthy and ruddy in appearance, tastefully and neatly dressed, and scrupulously clean. The children of our public schools are undoubtedly attractive in appearance, and betray a look of general intelligence that cannot be excelled in any like institution on the coast. As is generally known, there are four school cooms, one of which is presided over by Prof. Sherman, the principal. This room is devoted to those most advanced in study, numbering thirty-two when the EPITAPH man dropped in Menday. The department next in grade is presided over by Mrs. Stanton, and contained fifty-two pupils at the opening. The next two rooms are somewhat separated from the others, being in a separate building about twentyfive yards distant. These two latter rooms are presided over respectively by Mrs. Gaston and Miss Santee, the former having fifty-seven children under her charge, and the latter sixty. Thus it will be seen that at the opening there were 201 in attendance, which is a very flattering gathering. Among these are several new pupils who had not attended at the former session, Others sent word that they would commence in a few days. Prof. Sherman in the higher department will commence a class on book-keeping and the children file in and out of the school at the tap of a drum, and the older boys have organized a band which they will be permitted to practice every Friday. The trustees visited the school Monday and expressed themselves as much pleased with the attendance and morale of the children. Prizes were also offered for good conduct and assiduous study. We understand that gratuitious instruction in vocal music, will also be given the children twice a week. The rooms are well ventilated and always kept scrupulously neat and clean. The rules of order are perfect, and in general, the schools are a credit to the city.

A Suggestion to the City Council. The horrible state of our streets is apparent to every person, and that an effort should be made by the City Council to have them properly sprinkled is also a naked fact. Under the present system the dust is never properly allayed and it behooves the gentlemen who compose the Council to make an effort in that direction. We understand that the Huachuca Water Company are willing to sprinkle the streets at a moderate rate, and do it thoroughly. If our understanding is correct, the city agreed with the compay, that the latter should furnish water for all publie purposes upon the payment of a stipulated sum, to be decided by an arbitrator raids in the day time, and apparently if the two contracting parties could not never rest as they pursue their work of come to terms. We understand the company are willing to water every public thoroughfare in the city thoroughly with ceived Monday, states that six Mexicans hose, or water cart where the hose cannot were killed on Saturday, between the Cana- reach. As the Huachuca Company furnnea and Huachuca mountains. There ish the city with water for fire purposes, without cost, it is nothing more than a square deal to the least, to give the company the benefit of whatever patrouage the city has to two others narrowly escaped with their bestow. The city has the benefit of the lives, one of them bringing along a bullet fluest water works in the United States, and if it had to pay $10,000 a year for their use it would be nothing more than a very moderate sum. The city of Council Bluffs whole northern part of Sonora is overrun pays a weter company $25,000 per year for with hostiles, and that their number is the use of water for fire purposes, and the engines are now en route from Suez daily augmented with San Carlos rene. system of water works is very much inferior to ours. It would be vastly more pleasing to a large majority of the people of this city if the Council would pay a ed the Janiverichi ranch, near the head handsome sum for having the streets waters of the Sonora river. THE SONORA REVOLUTION. An Outbreak Expected Daily .-- Many People Fleeing From the State.

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

When the news of impending civil disorder was first received from Sonora, many people pooh-poohed it, but later develop-ments confirm the fact that a struggle is on the tapis. An intelligent and observing gentlemen, whose name, for various rea-sons, we are requested not to use, arrived in this city Tuesday and being taken in hand by an EPITAPH man, spoke freely on the impending crisis. Our informant is not a man that could be easily led away by mere enthusiesm or insidious agitation and he is firmly of the belief that Sonora is on the eve of the most vicious civil strife ever witnessed in that commonwealth. The feelings engendered are almost cer-tain to end in bloodshed, and more than probable in the fall of Carlos Ortiz. The dispute between Torres and Ortez is of recent origin, and may be attributed to the latter's animosity to the investment of American capital. This last assertion may be somewhat qualified, as every inducement is offered for the investment of foreign capital, though studied persecutions are of daily occurrence to prevent the en-joyment of the usufruct. Under the ausjoyment of the usufruct. Under the auspices of Torres, American capital, in any considerable quantity, first began to seek Sonora. He promised complete and adequate protection to allowed builders, mine workers, stock raisers, agriculturists, and, in fact, to any species of industry that may come forward with an offer to develop the dormant resources of his State. He was true to his word. During his administration Sonora progressed more rapidly than she ever before dreamed of, and under the fostering care of the Chief Magistrate the railroad was started from Guaymas and crept along steadily until it Guaymas and crept along steadily until it has now nearly reached the American frontier. When Ortiz entered the executive office he made specious promises that he would continue the work carved out by he would continue the work carved out by his predecessor. Yet, ere his seat was warm, he commenced a series of petty persecutions that became almost impossible for Americans to submit to. The Governor took it into his head to issue passes on the railroad, and scarcely a train passed between Hermosillo and Guaymas for six months that a dozen or more deadheads were not borne along on an executive perwere not borne along on an executive permit. Nor was this the worst. The passen-gers riding on the Governor's passes took it on themselves to so stop the trains when-ever they felt disposed to talk to their friends on the road. This thing became a nuisance. The Dons would invariably sit by the window, and if perchance they should see an acquaintance ahead on the roadside the conductor would be immedi-ately signalled to stop the train. The Don would then gracefully and without undig-nified haste alight and exchange greetings with his friend, discuss politics and the state of the country for some time, mutu-ally admire the railroad, and then, with many a bow and adios, the traveler would again enter the coach and inform the congain enter the coach and inform the conductor that he could proceed. This thing was almost of daily occurrence, and be-came such an enormous nuisance that the management gave orders to the con-ductors not to stop between sta-tions. A few days after, a mem-ber of the city government of Hermosillo had occasion to go to Guaymas, and as was customary, rode on the Governor's permit. About thirty miles from Her-mosillo he gave orders to the conductor to stop the train, in order that he may visit the house of a friend within a hundred yards of the track. The conductor refused and the official became almost wild with rage, and threatened all sorts of things, among others that he would lodge the train w.an in jail when they reached Gusymas. will continue the Latin and Algebra classes | True to his word, the unfortunate conducstarted at the former term and in addition | tor was arrested and fined fifty dollars at Guaymas. Then began the general kick. The railroad appealed to the General physiology. He encourages the children Government and demanded protection. gentle means, rather than coercion and Ortiz kept on persecuting the company, has such things as the young hearts would and insisted on his right to issue passes has such things as the young hearts would naturally be attracted to. For instance, the Governor in unmeasured terms. About the troops at Hermosillo, got into a scrape and Ortiz started to prosecute him. This led to a union between Carbo and Torres, that, as subsequent events proved, was used effectually to crush the Governor. The ex-Governor and the General started for the seat of the Federal Government, where both had much influence, and suc ceeded in persuading the administration that the retirement of Ortiz was necessary to maintain peace in the State. Under such a state of affairs, the Government promised to sid the revolutionists and there is not a doubt remaining but that Torres and Carbe will be at the head of a revolutionary army in Sonora ere many days. The struggle will be no pic-nic either, as Ortez had been advised of the intention of the federal government, and has been making active preparations for a fight for some time back. He issued a proclamation about two weeks ago, call ing upon all the able-bodied men in the State to enroll themselves in the national guard and resist the aggressions of the re olutionists. Since then he has threaterfed to levy a forcible draft to recruit the militia force, unless the able-bedied citizens come forward voluntary and join the ranks. Under this threat nearly all the young men in the northern part of the State are flooding into Arizona. Not less than a hundred Mexicans have arrived at Bisbee from the Songra valley towns with-in two weeks, all intent on evading the draft, though from the preparations being made, it is evident that they won't be idle while the contest is going on. A great number have come to this city, provided hemselves with arms and and returned quietly to their homes. In conversation, some of them expressed the intention of carrying on a guerilla warfare on their own hook when the trouble explodes, and it is more than probable, tha the people in the northern portion of the will keep neutral and prey on both. There has been more arms sold in this city during the past few days, than at any period in the history of the camp. P. W. Smith & Co.'s store was almost completely cleaned out of guns last Monday, and the other shops are also doing a thriving business. Our informant is of opinion that the railroad is backing Torres and Carbo and that the influence of that corporation had much to do with determining the Fed eral Government to take a hand. rival of Torres is daily expected, and it is known that he has an escort of 500 Federal soldiers. General Reyes is camped with his entire command about 100 miles east Anache atrocities on the frontier, he has ot moved to punish them. This is signi ficant, when it is remembered that he tool his command off the trail, and marched within easy distance of Hermesello after having a consultation with an aid-de-camp fresh from General Carbo. Ortiz is certain that he can maintain his position by force of arms until the expiration of his term, while the Federal troops and revolutionists assert that they can drive him out of the State in less than a month. In any event, a sanguinary time may be expected that bodes no good to the foreign capital in vested in the State.
